

Whitehill One

BPI technology for Data Integration and Automated Workflow for Legal Processes

By combining workflow and data integration into a single product, Whitehill One, the BPI (Business Process Integration) solution from Oracle reduces time, money and cost inherit from unnecessary manual administrative processes. Saturn27's partnership with Oracle ensures that clients benefit from our combined experience and knowledge of both finance and data systems within the legal industry to deliver you seamless and cost effective automated processes.

The Issue

The day-to-day business activities required to run a firm are myriad and complex, with numerous disparate data systems employed. Lack of integration between systems is costly and time consuming. Fundamental processes such as new matter inception, conflict checking and new hires all incur significant money and expense. Processes already computerised are also vulnerable to human error such as data input.

The Solution

Whitehill One enables you to connect multiple systems and apply workflow to numerous processes. Complete with pre-built software packs (legal connectors), it facilitates fast integration into most legal software. Also included are pre-built services (legal accelerators) which allow for rapid deployment of legal specific processes.

New connections, processes and customisations of process templates are also available.

A list of the most common legal accelerators and connectors are detailed in the table below.

Legal Connectors	Legal Accelerators
Elite	New Matter Inception
ADERANT	Conflict Checking
Hummingbird	New Hire Intake
Interwoven	Cheque Requests
InterAction	Security Management
Active Directory	Anti-money Laundering
Email
Intranet

How is Whitehill One installed?

The automation process begins with a graphic modelling interface, similar to a flowchart. In this screen you can map out all the steps in a specific process without the need for programming and coding. Once the process is mapped, the data system(s) can be connected. It is that easy!
